LOYOLA COLLEGE, MONTREAL, CANADA

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1945

Father Rector Welcomes Loyola Mothers At Assembly

College Orchestra Elects Officers

It has been announced by Fr. Hodgins, the Moderator of the College Orchestra, that the election of officers for that organization have been held. Jean Beauregard is President of the Society. He succeeds Anthony Logan, who has resigned because of the pressure of other work. The new Vice-President is Thomas Sullivan, and the Secretary is Albert Boisjoli. Maurice Latour was elected Treasurer, and the new Manager is Louis Charbonneau.

Three new librarians have also been appointed. They are: Gerald McCarthy, John McIntyre and Neil O'Keefe.

Any Loyola student interested in becoming a member of the orchestra, is urged to give his name to Mr. Beauregard, or to any one of the above-mentioned officers.

DRIVE FOR POOR

College and High School Sodalties announce that a drive for the poor will start on Monday. At least 20 families will benefit thereby.

On the occasion of the first general assembly of the Mothers of Loyola Students, held at Loyola College, Reverend Father Rector expressed his gratification in extending to them in his own name and in the name of all the Faculty Members a most cordial welcome. He said that he never looked upon the mothers of the students as ordinary visitors, but as close friends and collaborators in the work for which the College exists.

"We all realize that the primary responsibility for the spiritual, intellectual and character formation of these boys rests primarily with the parents. This school, any school, cannot hope to do more than to supplement this home training. Since this is so, it is obvious to all that the closer the cooperation between parents and the College, the more perfect will be the result achieved."

BACH PROGRAM PRESENTED FRIDAY

Last Friday at the Hermitage, the Festival Society of Montreal presented their first concert in a new series of Chamber Music with the McGill String Quartet. At this musicale, three of the Brandenburg Concertos of John Sebastian Bach were played by an orchestra under the direction of Alexander Brott, famous orchestra leader and composer. During the season, the McGill String Quartet will present all the Brandenburg Concertos, and will maintain the tradition of affording Montrealers the opportunity of hearing Chamber Music of the highest quality.

Father Rector pointed out that it was in the hope of securing this closer co-operation that he had founded, four years ago, The Loyola Mothers' Guild. "The Guild has indeed justified its existence in every way," Fr. Rector stated. "Without the loyal help and understanding assistance of the Guild during the past four years, a great deal that had been done for the direct benefit of the students in all their activities, Spiritual, Social, Cultural and even in Athletics, would of necessity have to be left undone."

In expressing his gratitude to the President and the Executive for their splendid achievements, Father Rector strongly urged all the mothers of Loyola Students

Big Maroon Team Off To Lennoxville

Five Years Elapsed Since Meeting Of Bishop's Squad

One of Loyola's greatest traditions will be revived tomorrow afternoon, when Fr. Grimes leads his College football team to Lennoxville to meet Bishop's College. Five years have elapsed since these rivals last met, and it will be remembered that Loyola won the Provincial Championship, under the captaincy of Eddie Asselin, who has returned to Loyola, after spending four years in a German concentration camp, and who turned in a magnificent game against Dawson last Saturday, acting once again as captain.

The outlook is much brighter than a week ago, Fr. Grimes reports, because the team has had another week of early morning practices, and the boys are nearing tip-top shape. The line-up for tomorrow's game has not as yet been announced, but it is expected that most of those who lined up against Dawson will see action. Frank Graham, Don Aird and Mike Munro, former Catholic High stars, will be in the backfield tomorrow, along with Don McQuestion, Leo Salvatti, Jimmy Swift, John Meagher and Tubby O'Connell. Kev Reynolds and Doug McGillis will again do the kicking. The line will be pivoted by Ted Kehoe and Bob Boyle, while Howie McCarney, Paul Shaughnessy, John Pare and Bob Bulger will see action along the wing line. The team leaves Montreal early tomorrow morning, and will return some time tomorrow night.

CLASS OF '43 REUNION HELD AT RITZ-CARLTON

The graduates of '43 and H.S. '39 held their first post-war reunion in the Ritz-Carlton Hotel Thursday evening, October 25th.

It all started a few weeks ago when Bob Braderick, Frank Monahan, and other well-known Alumni put their heads together, realizing that most of the boys were now back from overseas, and arranged a get-together. The response was amazing, showing true Loyola spirit. Some twenty-eight in all were present. It was good to see the old faces again; but sad indeed to remember the absent ones who would never again return. The ranks of this class were perhaps the hardest hit of any.

Bob Broderick headed the banquet table, as class president, and introduced a number of speakers—impromptu and otherwise—among whom were Tom Davis, Ab Bellor, Jim Kennedy, Tom McKenna and Kev Kierans.

Bob (Doc) Broderick expressed the wish that this should be an annual affair, not only for this particular class, but perhaps for a renewed, more enthusiastic Loyola Alumni Association.

Veterans On The College Team

Now that College football has at last returned to Loyola a brief glance at the lineup of the team will show a lot of former servicemen. Many of these boys are already well known around Loyola and still more of them will become so in the very near future. Of these veterans nine are former Air Force personnel, five served in the Army and two in the Navy.

Besides these Bernie McCallum an old Loyola star in football and hockey did hitches in both the Army and Air Force. Bernie will be remembered for his driving game at the inside wing.

Of the nine Air Force veterans four are former Loyola students. They are Eddie Asselin prisoner of war for four years, and at present Loyola's hard hitting centre secondary, and Cliff Malone who has been out of the service for a year now and who played a bang-up game at end in our first game against Dawson. Billy Doyle also starred at outside and the last member of this quintet, Tubby O'Connell gained many a yard from his half back post last Saturday.

The other five Air Force boys are new to Loyola but not to Loyola students for each of them has played on opposing teams. Jim Swift starred at St. Leo's, Don McQuestion was a thorn in the side to many Loyola teams when he played for Roy Chesley's Westhill teams. Mike Munroe and Frank

Orr & White Defend Hearth Against Junior Board

At Loyola College tonight, the debating season opens when the Montreal Junior Board of Trade meets the college team in the first debate scheduled by the Montreal

SOLEMN REQUIEM MASS

A Solemn Requiem Mass will be offered for the deceased members of the Loyola Staff, Alumni and students on Thursday and Friday, November 8 and 9, at 9.00 a.m. in the College Chapel. High School students will attend on Thursday and the College students on Friday. Alumni and friends of the deceased are also invited to attend the Mass on Friday.

Graham both faced Loyola squads while wearing the Black and White of Catholic High School. Bob Bulger broke up many of our plays while playing the line for McGee.

Of the Army boys only one is a former Loyola student. He is flying wing Doug McGillis. The others are all new at the College, they are backfielder Doug Aird and linemen Mecera, Durocher and Sheehan.

The two Navy veterans are former student Hugh Gagnier who plays the line and Don Toohey, outside, who is the older brother of Ralph Toohey former High School backfield ace.

Debating League. The question under discussion is: "Resolved that Ireland's neutrality in the recent war was perfectly justified." The Loyola College team of Joe White and Paul Orr will uphold the affirmative, while the Board of Trade will advance the negative side of the question. This is the first of many debates arranged by the Montreal League, and the College Debating Society have high hopes of winning what promises to be an interesting and strongly contested discussion.

This same topic was under discussion last week, when it was the subject of the regular debate held by the debating society. At that time, the affirmative, represented by the president of the society, Joe White and his colleague Paul Orr, were victorious over the negative team of Harry Hall and Anthony Milledge. This was a useful opportunity to evaluate the affirmative arguments and provide against a repetition of their mistakes in tonight's contest.

It is also reported that on November 17, Loyola will play host to the Inter-University Debating League executive when it meets to draw up a program for the coming season. In the past three years, Loyola has been able to retain the Beatty trophy, emblem of debating supremacy, and it is hoped that when the regular I.U.D.L. season gets under way next March, they will be able to repeat their successes of former years.

A Mother's Wisdom

It has been said that: "The bearing and training of the child is a mother's wisdom." The mother's influence in a man's development can be seen throughout his life. Even when a son has left home for school the original influence on his formation—his mother's—remains. That is why it is most proper that the Mothers should keep "in touch" through such visits as the one sponsored yesterday by the Loyola Mothers' Guild; that they should see for themselves the sequel to their own teachings.

To the Mothers we might point out that, even before their visit, they had been with Loyola. Our chapel, which they have seen, might tell them of countless prayers which it has heard and softly reverberated heavenwards for them. They have been and continue daily to be with our school in the youthful curiosity, the encouraging thirst for knowledge which they were the first to foster in us. But in nothing are they our teachers more than in the elements of true Loyola spirit; for it consists essentially of being generous and loyal after the example of their own self-sacrificing devotedness.

We look forward now to having an equally successful Fathers' day at Loyola during the year.

Correspondence

Ed Note—The following letter was printed in The Daily Princetonian.

Sir: You are kind enough to refer to certain of my writings in regard to the difficulties and fallacies of written examinations. You ask me if there is any way—if I have your phrase right—to "get by." I think there is.

Every student should train himself to be like the conjurer Houdini. Tie him as you would, lock him in as you might, he goes loose. A student should acquire this looseness.

For the rudiments of education, there is no way round. The multiplication table has got to be learned. They say Abraham Lincoln knew it all. So, too, the parts of speech must be committed to memory, and left there. The names of the Wessex Kings from Alfred (better Aelfoydd) to his Danish successor Half-Knut should be learned and carefully distinguished from the branches of the Amazon.

But these rudiments once passed, education gets easier and easier as it goes on. When one reaches the stage of being what is called a ripe scholar, it is so easy as to verge on imbecility.

Now for college examinations, once the student is let into college, there are a great number of methods of evasion. Much can always be done by sheer illegibility of handwriting and by smearing ink all over the exam paper and then crumpling it up into a ball.

But apart from this, each academic subject can be fought on its own ground. Let me give you one or two examples.

Here, first, is the case of Latin translation—the list is extracted from Caesar, Cicero, etc., the origin of each always indicated by having the word Caesar, etc. under it. On this we seize as our opportunity. The student does not need to know one word of Latin. He learns by heart a piece of translated Caesar, selecting a typical extract, and he writes that down. The examiner merely sees a faultless piece of translation and notices nothing—or at least thinks that the candidate was given the wrong extract. He lets him pass.

Here is the piece of Caesar as required:

These things being thus this way, Caesar although not yet did he not know neither the copiousness of the enemy nor whether they had frumentum, having sent on Labienus with an impediment he himself on the first day before the third day, ambassadors having been sent to Vercingetorix, lest who might which, all having been done, set out.

Cicero. In (and through) Catiline.

Cicero is easily distinguished by the cold, biting logic of his invective. Try this:

How now which, what, oh Catiline, infected, inflected, disducted, shall you perfrage us? To what expunction shall we not subject you? To what bonds, to what vinculation, to how great a hyphen? I speak. Does he? No.

Cicero. In (and through) Catiline.

The summation of what is called the liberal arts course is reached with such subjects as political theory, philosophy, etc. Here the air is rarer and clearer and vision easy. There is no trouble at all

Passing Parade

By John Meagher

No Loyola man is more worthy of our praise than senior Eddie Asselin. Ed was the first Loyola student to volunteer for Active service, the first to get into action in the Hun-infested Dover skies during the Battle of Britain, and the first to be shot down and imprisoned by the Germans. He returned to Canada only a few months ago, and is at present touring Canada, appearing in rallies on behalf of the Ninth Victory Loan. In whatever spare time he has, he manages to get in a little study and football. He is remembered by all the older students for his thrilling feats on the gridiron as captain of the '39 Provincial Championship squad. Once again he is in a maroon and white outfit, and every Loyola student will get a great thrill in watching a magnificent pigskin totter carry the mail for the highest team in the School.

in circling around the examiner at will. The best device is found in the use of quotations from learned authors of whom he has perhaps—indeed, very likely—never heard, and the use of languages which he either does not know or can't read in blurred writing. We take for granted that the examiner is a conceited, pedantic man, as they all are—and is in a hurry to finish his work and get back to a saloon.

Now let me illustrate. Here is a question from the last Princeton examination in Modern Philosophy. I think I have it correct or nearly so.

"Discuss Descartes' proposition, 'Cogito ergo sum', as a valid basis of epistemology."

Answer:
"Something of the apparent originality of Descartes' dictum, 'cogito ergo sum', disappears when we recall that long before him Globulus had written 'Testudo

Under the Tower

With Russ Breen

For the past week our Seniors have been trying to improve their looks before visiting Garcia's, believe it or not, for the graduation pictures. (The forecast is a number of retakes). With this head start the Review should make its way off the press by June. . . . Congratulations to Father Breslin and his staff for that long awaited issue of the year book. Taking everything into consideration (war, lack of material, inexperienced labour, etc.), it was a fine report. Now, however, those obstacles behind us, and this year being the fiftieth graduation year, it should be bigger and better.

Because of the pressure of studies Phil Ready was compelled to resign his position as Managing Editor. For the past year Phil has worked hard for the News and his loss will be felt by the rest of the staff. Capable Charlie Phelan, former set-up editor, will now fill that vacancy.

A meeting will be called next week for all those interested in reporting for the News. It is impossible for ten fellows on the staff to cover the complete campus of over nine hundred students. For this reason it is hoped that all who would like to work on the photography, circulation or sports staff will be present at this meeting. There will also be three boxes placed about the college, one in the Junior Bldg., one in the Central Bldg., and another outside the News Office on the fourth floor of the Administration Bldg. . . . If any student has anything of News value or any short story that he would like to have printed, then let him use these boxes, placed within easy access for that very purpose. If any article that we receive is worth while it will be printed.

Congratulations are due to members of Freshman Arts on the first publication of their "Freshman Muse". We are indebted to these budding Byrons for whatever limericks we reproduce in the News from time to time. Reading this booklet through reminded us of Mario Pasquali's theme song for the philosophers in the logic exam—"I wish I knew." . . . We received a letter from Francois Mercier, a recent graduate of Loyola, who is now a member of the Patenaude, Patenaude, Hebert, Trahan and Mercier firm. Those of us who remember Frank know that he will certainly make a name for himself as a Lawyer.

Here and There:—

Bill Tyler, formerly of Loyola High School, starred in the first St. Mary's High School football game in Halifax, scoring ten of the eleven points. His brother, Ernie, also a Loyola grad, is Coach. . . . Dick Cronin, past president of the student body, had the honour of being the first one to apply for a subscription for the News. . . . Word has been received that the first issue of the Marianopolis Journal will appear within a few weeks. . . . Arnold Jones, formerly of the Loyola, is now a sports reporter for the Gazette. . . . Captain Harold Tingle of the class of '40, just back from overseas visited the college this week. . . . Paul Carten also back at Loyola. . . . Notice the report from the graduates of '43 on the first page we would welcome more of these. . . . Looking through the window in the office I can see the crowd getting thicker on the Campus for the Loyola-C.H.S. game. My anxiety to see Loyola trounce C.H.S. is getting the better of me. So until the City Champs game (Spero) Be Good.

ergo crepito', and the great Arab scholar Alhelalover, writing about 200 Fahrenheit, had said, 'Indigo ergo gum'. But we have only to turn to Descartes' own brilliant contemporary, the Abbe Pate de Foie Gras, to find him writing, 'Dimanche, lundi, mardi, mercredi, jeudi, vendredi, samedi', which means as much, or more, than Descartes' assertion. It is quite

High School Highlights

By Don Suddaby

True Loyola men are having a tough time these days running around after the various teams. With the addition of the college team things are becoming extremely complicated. Ah well, don't worry, fellows, it is almost all over.

The senior club is a true masterpiece, that is all except the floor which tends to give the person crossing a case of 'mal de mer'.

Last Saturday's game was played to almost empty stands. So come on, fellows, you wanted the college to support their teams it is only fair that the college be supported by the high school.

Bitter battles are being waged on the basketball court between 4a and 4b. It looks as though the inter-mural league is going to develop into quite an interesting series. It's all right though. Loyola has an infirmarian who is equipped to take care of any casualties.

The Battle of Bill's is still being waged daily and you take your life in your hands if you attempt to approach the

The boarders certainly like their ping-pong. On every available table with nets of anything 1 1-4 inches high the artists perform. It is something to see a lad that barely reaches the height of the table slam across some truly wicked shots.

Congratulations to all of those who helped at the Mothers' Guild meeting yesterday. Let's hope your mater will not blast all your well thought out excuses with some vital statistics obtained first hand.

Standing: Reynolds (ass. coach), McMullan, Boyd, Dennis, Orr (Capt.), Epstein, Flynn, Webb, Delicat, Rochford, Tallon, Lawand, D. Brown, E. Meagher (coach).

It is three in a row for Loyola's Bantams, and by that we mean three straight championships Eddie Meagher brought his boys home in front of all opposition. It's been quite a season for the young lads, going through undefeated, and that includes two exhibition games. Also they have only had five points scored against them by the opposition. The team big and fast were led by a very capable backfield made up of such able lads as Bucky Orr, George Mehan, McKinney and many others. However as the old saying goes a backfield is only as good as its front wall and that wall was plenty good. Any line that can hold the opposition to five points in such a long season must be of the best. "Michigan" Flynn was without a doubt the backbone of the line. He has been considered by many as one of the best looking prospects to come up in Bantam ranks for many years. We can't overlook the work done by such men as Herbie English, Leahy Laroque and others.

We believe that this must be something in the nature of a league record for winning consecutive titles. We could go on for an indefinite length on the merits of this fine team, but all good things must come to an end. the Bantams can rank alongside their Senior brothers for their fine displays. No praise can be complete without speaking of the coach. Eddie Meagher has for many years been one of Loyola's most outstanding athletes in all fields of sport. For the past two years he has given of his talents to the youngsters who have come under his coaching. In this his final year at Loyola he has finished his athletic career in a blaze of glory. Congratulations to Ed and His Mighty Bantams. They well deserve to wear the colors of Loyola.

likely that the Abbe was himself acquainted with the words of Pretzel, Wiener Schnitzel and Schmierkase; even more likely still he knew the treatise of the low German, Fisch von Gestern, who had already set together a definite system or scheme. He writes: 'Wo ist mein Bruder? Er ist in dem Hause. Habe ich den Vogel gesehen? Dies ist ein gutes Messer. Holen Sie Karl und Fritz und wir werden alle ins Theater gehen. Danke Bestens.'"

There one can see how easy it is. I know it from my own experience. I remember in my fourth year in Toronto (1891) going into the exam room and picking up a paper which I carelessly took for English Philology; I wrote on it, passed on it and was pleasantly surprised two weeks later when they gave me a degree in Ethnology. I had answered the wrong paper. This story, oddly enough, is true.

It's Anybody's Game Sunday

We're still shaking somewhat from the thrills received at last Sunday's game. We haven't seen such a game for many a year. There were many in the stands who thought that with the substantial lead Catholic High had built up it was all over but the cheering for Loyola. Just what Gordie Mariotte said to his charges at half time, we don't know, but it's been a long time since we've seen such a comeback by any Loyola team. MPassing by the C.H.S. bench we could feel the gloom descend as Keith English and Sammy Davidson continued to tear the much vaunted black and white which team would be able to stop our boys gave the answer.

Sunday's game will decide the outcome. All Loyola need is a tie to win the championship. Judging by the way they show themselves, the team can fight when the need arises. They have even chance of repeating their previous year's success. Our boys can't do very much unless they have our support. Many of the students have shown one time that your presence is all get behind the team and give them the support they showed just what they could do for you. See you do your bit in return.

AROUND THE CAMPUS

By Bob Boyle

For the third consecutive year Loyola's little men have brought the trophy, emblematic of their supremacy in the Bantam football league, to Loyola. Two years ago it was Mr. Toppings, S.J., who coached these lads; last season it was Mr. Ambrosia, S.J., and now Eddie Meagher has made it three straight with his power-packed squad. It seems as though the five points scored against them during the season constitutes some sort of a league record. Most of these boys are just beginning their football careers at Loyola, and in the not too far distant future you'll see them as the backbone of many winning Senior teams. Such men as Michigan Flynn, Bucky Orr, George Meaghan, McKinney and many others will soon be helping to make football history at Loyola. It's a well known fact that any team is only as good as its coach. Letting performances speak for themselves, we can see how capable Ed. was in his position. He's in his final year at the college, and he certainly ended it in a blaze of glory. Congratulations to Ed. and his "mighty little men."

Juniors Hors de Combat

That 1-0 victory by McGee over C.H.S. put the damper on any hope of our Juniors annexing a second football crown to Loyola. There remains only a chance of coming out on top, and that, if the rumor is true, is that Catholic High may protest McGee's claim to the trophy on the grounds that the double blue have been playing a man over age. However, such things are usually hard to prove, and for the most part cause considerable bad feeling amongst the schools. Coach Johnny Meagher's boys have nothing to be ashamed of in defeat. They displayed throughout the season a hard driving type of ball. Competition in this league has been keen, and they were forced to extend themselves at all times. In the opinion of most observers little Paul Gallagher was the backbone of the Junior outfit. He was a sensation in all departments, and with a little added weight will surely fashion into one of the most versatile players ever to wear a Loyola uniform. Incidentally two of the Juniors, Chamandy and Hecklinger are expected to be brought up to Senior company for the remainder of the season. That's all we'll hear from the Juniors until hockey time, but if they can do half as well on the blades as they did with the pigskin no one will have any complaints.

It's Here to Stay.

Despite poor weather conditions it seems as if active college sports have gotten off to a red hot start. Both Dawson and Loyola showed a rather mediocre type of football, which, however, was to be expected, considering that neither team have had much practice, and many of the players have been away from the game for a number of years. The main point of the game was not so much the actual competition between the two schools as to the revival of college sports. One point was particularly noticeable, that being the difference in the game played by the high school team and that displayed by the college boys. The prohibiting of blocking by both linemen and backfielders and many of the other rules of Canadian rugby tended to make the game rather dull and long drawn out. It would be interesting to watch college teams play under high school rules. With the size of players and their more developed ability we're certain the game would become a lot livelier, and that's what it needs. The college team travels to Lennoxville to-morrow,—where they meet their old rivals from Bishop's College. Wonder if it could be possible for some of the student body to arrange transportation down to cheer the boys on?

Crucial Game Sunday

Dawson Ekes Out
Close Win

Intermediate college football stepped back into the spotlight after five years' layoff, last Saturday afternoon, when Loyola played hosts to Dawson College from St. Johns. Loyola went down to a heart-breaking defeat, 2-1. To offset the loss of the game, was the appearance of Eddie Asselin. It was a great sight to see his familiar number eleven on the back of his maroon and white sweater. Eddie was elected captain of the team, taking the position he left when he joined the R.C.A.F. By his remarkable display on Saturday, he showed that he had lost none of his football capability, as he was a tower of strength on the defensive.

The game, played under Canadian rules, seemed slow as compared with the high-school rules which the fans are accustomed to seeing. Loyola had most of the play throughout, but lacked that extra something when in scoring position. (Mike Munroe and Don Aird were the big guns for Loyola, and did most of the ground gaining. Mike was particularly effective on extension plays, and picked gaps in the opposing lines for long gains. Don's plunging and change of pace around the ends moved the yardsticks several times. Along the line, Eddie Meagher and Paul Shaughnessy were the mainstays with their tackling and very effective blocking. Doug McGillis kicked to the deadline, for the only Loyola point.

Loyola showed signs of a very promising team, and in their next two scheduled encounters, the outcome will be different, we can assure you. The boys had only a week's practice, which took place at seven o'clock in the morning, in weather of rain, snow and hailstones.

Tomorrow, the team travels to Lennoxville, to meet Bishop's College. Bishop's have a strong team, and Loyola will have a tough fight to achieve their first victory. Incidentally, Lennoxville isn't very far, so with nothing to do on Saturday, how about going down to cheer Loyola onto their first post-war victory.

JUNIORS FAIL TO CAPTURE HONORS

Loyola's Junior entry have come to the end of the football line, missing out on the honors by one point. This in virtue of a win by D'Arcy McGee over C.H.S. 1-0. Although no Junior title will come to Loyola this season, nevertheless the team deserves great praise for the fine spirit they have shown throughout the campaign.

Looking over the roster, we find many capable performers in Don Malone, who was moved from quarter to halfback, and was good for plenty of yardage any time he took the ball. Jimmy O'Brien, who, although not always sensational, was considered by many to be just about the best man on the team. Then there were men like Dick Tremblay, who, along with Jim Desrosiers, specialized in end runs. At the flying-wing position, Bob Mudie excelled in reverse plays and on the defensive. There were, of course, Paul Gallagher and Reggie Clayton calling signals; the latter being noted for his deception. Substituting for these backfielders, were Keith Kerr,

"Team Play And Spirit Wins
Game" - Says Coach Mariotte

Our boys have done it again! Before approximately five thousand fans, the Loyola Senior grid-ers won one of those nip-and-tuck battles against the Black and White, although at the outset, the odds were against them, nevertheless, fighting with the old Loyola spirit, came through with a 11-10 victory over their opponents. The league standing at the present time, is slightly confusing to some, but the results of last Sunday's game shows Loyola trailing C.H.S. by one point. Sunday's contest will decide the winner of the Catholic Section, and the ultimate opponent of Westhill in the city final.

It would be rather difficult to single out one particular player, for, as Coach Gordie Mariotte said in the dressing room after the game: "No one man deserves credit for the victory, the whole team deserve the highest praise."

However, after watching the game, we found that such men as Keith English, Sammy Davidson, Bob Marchessault, Frank Bruneau, and Chinny Heffernan stood out particularly in the backfield. Up front, Bob Perras and Johnny Pytlick played sixty minute games. "Dinty" O'Shaughnessy and Whitney Schutz both turned in outstanding performances.

Part of the success of the team last Sunday, was due to the cheering section, and if you expect the boys to come through again against C.H.S., you'll have to shout just about twice as loud.

At this point, a lot of credit is due to the work of Gordie Mariotte, who has given a great deal of valuable time to this squad, and for this, he deserves your utmost support. Rain or shine, he's been out with his charges, drilling them in the plays that helped to beat Catholic High. We expect to see the entire student body at the game Sunday. Your team didn't let you down. Don't let them down.

Under The Shower

WITH

It is with great regret that we note that the grimmer period of college life has now begun. We have entered upon the real, grim, down to earth pursuit of our studies. The first indication of this was an anguished shriek of pain from the Sophomore class as they looked at their first Latin Translation exam. As further evidence, there is now a great shortage of cigarettes as the money supply dwindles. The seven lean months are not only in front of us, they're all around us, and looking down our throats.

In the pre-med course there is a very amiable gentleman named Mario Grosse. Mr. Grosse looked through his first microscope the other day and he hasn't been the same since. He goes around murmuring "Marvelous, absolutely marvelous!" and chasing little bugs with his microscope. The last time we saw him he had a scalpel in his hand and was trying to lure a Freshman into the laboratory.

We hate to admit it, but we missed the first meeting of the music appreciation group. But we did manage to get to a few meetings of the 'Garbage-Sitters Union!' This is a large, but nevertheless select, group of literary gentlemen who gather outside the library. The position of honor is a much battered garbage can. This is rapidly becoming the centre of all college life and activities. If you don't believe us go and look at the ring of butts.

In the past few days we have been noticing certain young men who go around the place wearing an exhausted look on their faces and brown dye on their foreheads. It turned out to be the college team which practises secretly at dawn. If the boys can run as fast as the dye in their helmets, we've got a winner.

In the past few years the college has been following with great interest the struggle of a professor to grow a moustache. At first it was a little weak, but as it waxed and grew stronger, and finally seemed to have reached a glorious bushy maturity, they congratulated its owner and took pride in his achievement. But last week a horrible thing happened. When he boarded a street car, the conductor looked him straight in the beard and offered him blue tickets.

The junior class is getting pretty worried about Anthony Logan of Senior class. Tony looks at them, shakes his head, murmurs to himself, throws up his arms, and collapses. But we sympathize with him. He has to sit near us and we study so intensively we probably distract him.

We have just received an offer from the Hobo News to write a series of articles for them on college life. We turned it down, but what makes us wonder is: How did they know we were in the law course?

C.O.T.C. NEWS

Hello again, fellow me lads! I am back again after a gruelling week of hunting for news. You know I am downright glad and thankful that you liked the column and cartoon in last week's issue, but I hope you didn't take it seriously, because the Q stores are really a swell outfit with all their faults. (I got paid today).

Say, here's a hot little bit of jargon. Did you know that on parade last week we had the pleasure of seeing some Navy, Army and Airforce personnel who have traded in their respective uniforms for the good old khaki. And instead of hearing... "Man the sea-boats" or "swab those decks, you limeys" we hear a gruffer scowl of "pick it up!" and "Atten... shun". You have it, fellows, it's Sergeant HEBBERT, late of the R.C.N.V.R. What's that you ask — "What's that over his left breast?" Well, it is the Canadian Volunteer Service Medal, the Atlantic Star, 39-43

Star, and "Mentioned in Despatches". We certainly are glad and proud to have you with us, Sarg.

Did you know that we have yet another R.C.N.V.R. seaman with us. It's Sgt. WILCOX, presently employed in the Q Stores. (I guess my last week's column got you, eh!) Dave left Loyola College several years ago, and went to serve his country, and he certainly has been around, but plenty... Ask him to show you his picture albums some day. Welcome back, Dave, and plenty of good luck to you.

Yes, indeed, our Unit is really beginning to spout. We even have Airforce personnel on our strength. Sergeant BULGER, with his Air Gunner's wings sitting proudly upon his chest, is really doing a very good job of instructing. I firmly believe that the Airforce loss was Loyola's gain.

Heavens! I nearly forgot our Active ARMY personnel. "Birds of a feather must stick together, you know." Another ex-serviceman we've seen around is Sergeant Edmund O'BRIEN. He came to us from the Royal Canadian Artillery. He has seen enough action in his three years' service, as his array of ribbons will testify. (The 1939-45 Star, the France-German Star and the C.V.S.M.), and that golden wounded stripe upon his arm. I have persuaded him to write our next column giving us some of his adventures. Thanks a lot,

WHAT DO YOU PLAN TO BE

Electrical Engineer?

You can't afford to be careless with a live wire. Nor can you afford to be careless about money matters when you enter the world of business. A sensible plan is to practice careful money management while you are still at college. Open a savings account of your own, even though deposits at first may be small. Thrift is a good habit now and for the future and can be an important factor in your success.
